CONGRATULATIONS 1957 CLASS

The Sixty-third Annual Graduation Exercises of St. Michael's Hospital School of Nursing were held in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, on June 4th, 1957. The opening address was given by the Chairman, Dr. Hagar Hethrington and the following address was given by Reverend C. J. Lavery, C.S.B.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATES

REV. C. J. LAVERY, C.S.B.

It is a great honour for me personally to address you today and I extend on behalf of all here present—the Sisters, the doctors, the nursing staff, your parents and friends—our sincerest wishes, congratulations and prayers upon the successful completion of your nursing course. As one of the many teachers you have had in the last few years, I can attest to your competence.

May I congratulate in a special way those who have just received awards for their particular excellence. You join a long list of outstanding nurses who in years gone by have been the recipients of the same awards.

At the outset of this address, I can assure you that I am not likely to say anything that is entirely new to you, nor anything that someone else has not said on previous graduations in this Convocation Hall. None the less, an occasion as this with its dignity and solemnity does provide us with the opportunity of restating the dominant ideas which should serve you always as beacons of truth and light in your nursing life.

As I listened to the announcement of the awards today, I noticed that there was one which was omitted from the list, and rightly so. This was not an oversight on the part of Sister Mary Kathleen, Sister de Sales or Miss Murphy. This award is the one for what I would call today Christ-like nursing. No one was singled out for it today, nor will this award be made a year from now at the Graduation Exercises. But there will be a day in eternity when Christ Himself will make the award to those of us who have endeavoured to follow His command to love our neighbour, and above all, to those who have taken Christ at His word and found Him in the sick.

Engraved on the invitation which you received for to-day's graduation, and over the doorway of the entrance to St. Michael's Hospital, are the words of Christ: "Quod minimis mihi fecisti"—"What you have done to the least of these, you have done to me". These are the words—or the motto—that I would leave with you today as a pattern of success for your future career in nursing and for your entire life.

Your graduation today indicates that you have achieved a certain degree of competency and professional skill, your graduation indicates that you are willing and most desirous of assuming the responsibility of nurses. You thus join the ranks of truly valiant and dedicated women who serve the sick.

But your graduation does not mean that you have completed your course in charity or love of God and love of neighbour. Rather, your graduation introduces you to a way of life in which you can dedicate yourself to fulfil the commandment of Christ and become great. The opportunity is yours, but it is up to you whether you become a nurse such as I will describe—a Christ-like nurse—or whether you will simply wear a uniform, work for a set number of hours a day and collect your remuneration.

If you follow the latter course, you may be a very successful nurse—most competent, very skilful and in great demand, but none the less, you may not be successful from God's point of view because you will not have developed in charity which is the law of life for all of us.

A Christ-like nurse must be technically competent, but she must be more than that; she must be animated by a deep personal love of God. Such a person will find Christ in the sick, but only because she has learned to know Him and to love Him in her own life. Such a nurse can then bring Christ to the sick whom He would embrace, and Christ in the sick will find you whom He would embrace.

This may sound like a pious speech or a sermon, but it is the truth. It is the word of God Himself. None of us can be successes in life unless we follow the blueprint drawn by Christ which is the absolute requirement of loving God and our neighbour.

But you as nurses have a special way of life where the opportunity is always presented to you. Your very work brings you to your neighbour—he is sick, he does require assistance and you are trained to help. Let us never underestimate the role of a nurse in the field of Medicine. The public pays tribute to the skill of a surgeon, to the brilliance of the medical man in diagnosing some rare disease, and rightly so, but these same doctors, many of whom are here today, will be the first to say that the recovery, or at least the mental peace of the patient, is greatly due to the nurse who spends so many minutes with the patient. Who can estimate the strength, the confidence, or the calmness that is conveyed to a patient by a real nurse—a Christ-like nurse. But such a way of nursing cannot be acquired over night. It will take a life-time of repeated actions to develop it. None the less, the starting point is the recognition of its necessity, and the desire to become such a person.

It is in the possibility of the development of this life of love or charity that I see the great glory of nursing. Too often, I think its greatness is not recognized because we miss its essential mission—the development of charity in ourselves through nursing others.

To-day, as we are told so often, is the age of electronics and automation. I do not know whether anyone has begun to devise an electronic nurse—one who will always be on time, will properly administer all prescriptions and will respond to push-button controls, but even if they should, they would be failures, because no automated or electronic nurse could love, nor could they recognize Christ in the sick. In this new era in which we live, it is your special mission as nurses to keep alive the life of love. We need science and all its wonderful inventions, but these are intended only as aids to man—to help him develop in a truly human way, which is in the life of the Spirit. As nurses, your vocation enables you to perfect yourself in love and to assist others likewise. It is a glorious challenge. It is an unparalleled way of life established by Christ Himself.

The gold pins which you will proudly wear from this day on bear the words which I have suggested as a pattern for life. May I suggest that, as you place the pin upon your uniform, you will always remember those words of Christ—"What you have done to the least of these, you have done to me".

Follow this plan in every walk of life—in the religious life, in nursing as a career, in marriage. You will then be a success in life. You will become a gold medalist in eternity when God Himself will give you the award of eternal happiness for your life on earth and for your Christ-like nursing.

1932-1957 25th ANNIVERSARY

After months of planning for the 25th Anniversary of the 1932 Class Reunion got off to a good start on June 1st with the arrival of many out-of-towners as well as the Torontonians.

The tempo ran high at our first meeting — a breakfast party at Verna Metcalfe Keyes. As the guests arrived one heard a whisper "Who is she?" "Is she so and so"—then a chorus "You are so and so". This was exciting and when everyone was identified it was chatting and laughter, scarcely time to eat the beautifully prepared selection of goodies. Thanks to the perfect hostess, Verna.

Saturday afternoon was free time for some at least to prepare and dress for the evening.

We re-assembled at the Royal York Hotel at 6 to enjoy cocktails 'til 8, when a turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, was enjoyed by everyone I'm sure.

After dinner each of the Reunion Committee was presented with beautiful pins, in appreciation for the organizing of the get-together. This was indeed a surprise and very much appreciated by the committee.

Picture taking and reminiscing 'til midnight ended the day.

Sunday, June 2nd, Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was celebrated at 9 a.m. in the Residence Chapel, for the intention of the 1932 Class and for the repose of the soul of Loretto Bond, who is the only deceased member of the class.

By this time we were hungry and off to the cafeteria we went, as guests of the sisters of St. Michael's, to enjoy a lovely breakfast.

After breakfast a number of sisters gave of their time to tour us, in different groups, to the interesting Departments through the Hospital, explaining the new and up-to-date method of treatment.

We owe a debt of gratitude to Sister Superior and to the Sisters of St. Michael's for their kindness to us on June 2nd.

On arriving at Laura McGurk's Sunday afternoon off came hats, coats and shoes to relax and talk over a million things.

The tea table was decorated in the traditional colours, red and white, including a graduation cake, trimmed with silver leaves.

During the tea hour we were honoured by the arrival of a lovely young graduate of 1957, Mary Jane Waller, with her mother, Mamie Moriarty Waller. Mamie had a surprise for us—the original doll dressed as a nurse, her favour at our graduation breakfast in 1932.

This ended a memorable Reunion.
